MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1861. FREMONT'S PROCLAMATION RECTIFIED. It will be seen from our telegraphic despatches that the President of the United States ha issued an order so modifying and rectifying that clause of Fremont's Proclamation which relates to the confiscation of property and the liberation of slaves as to make it conform to the late act of Congress on the subject of confiscation. It appears that the President, of receiving the proclamation, promptly wrote to Fremont, asking him to modify the objection able clause, but Fremont preferred that the modification should be made by a direct or der from the Government, which accordingly

The President has made thorough work o this business. The proclamation is rectified upou the points which we published on Thurs day last. They are, first: the liberation the confiscated negro. Second: the restriction of the confiscation of negroes to those case in which they are used in promoting actual hostilities against the United States; and third, a modification of that pertion of the proclamation which recognises no difference between dislovalists who ceased hostilities against the Government, and those dislovalists who persist in rebellion. The President requires the proc lamation to conform to the law of Congress of State Guards, and the arms distributed to each Number Companies. 75 61 3740 There is no enumeration of the number of comanies in the Eighth, Ninth, and Tenth Districts, but there have arms enough been distributed for over twenty regiments of State Guards therein, by order of the Inspector-General, with the ap probation of the Governor, before the establishnent of the Military Board. Since the election of the Board, a resolution was passed not to distribute more arms to the State Guard, and re juesting the Governor to call in as many arms stributed to the State Guard as would enable as they can find unarmed, with the following of the State between the Home Guard and the State Guard. The report says a few only of these arms have been received, and the Board have consequently been unable to make the equal division contemplated by law. The report also states authoritatively what has heretofore been denied when asserted by the Journal, that the enampments of State Guard companies by battalion or regiment, for training, which had been conducted to some extent without the concurrence of the Commissioners, were found to be prejudicial to the public interests, as officers and men, who were trained in these encampments at the expense of of the State, had abandoned their State Guard rganization, had left, and were continuing to leave, with the avowed intention of uniting themselves with the Confederate army. To correct this abuse thus practiced upon the liberality and patriotism of the State, the Military Board resolved to make no further appropriations "for the "HANGING, DRAWING, AND QUARTERING IS." purpose of training men who may at any mo ment abandon the service of the State to join others in hostility to the State of Kentucky and the Government of the United States.'

A highly respectable and influential editizen of Mercer county, father-in-law of Capt. Magoffin, the Missouri Magoffin, returned recently from Missouri. He went to Missouri a strong secessionist, but, on coming back, he said to his fellow citizens: "I have seen what the spirit of secession has done in Missouri. It would do the same among us. Another Infamous Outrage at Elizabeth TOWN .- We are informed that the freight train going south over the Louisville and Nashville Railroad yesterday was detained beyond its usua time by Blanton Duncan, James G. Gorsuch, John D. Pope, Mitchell La Peitle, Phil. Victor and a party of sixty or seventy secessionists, who remain long enough to enable them to ship sixty guns from that point for the Southern Confederacy. The guns were the same that Gorsuch. They had been seized at Elizabethtown, it appears, by order of Maj. A. L. Symmes, and placed in the jail for safe keeping, but Dup can, Gorsuch, and party broke open the jail yesterday, took possession of the arms, and shipped them to Camp Boone. The officers of the train it is said, were coerced into measures, the outlaws their demands at the muzzle of the pistol.

gantly fitted up, and will be formally opened this evening for a brief theatrical season, under the gement of Mr. Wood Benson, the popular comedian. The stage management has been placed in the hands of Mr. G. H. Gilbert, who has become to us a home institution. Much good taste has been displayed in the selection of the company, which embraces many names familiar to us, while none of them are unknown to fame In the cast for the current evening we meet such names as Mr. Alvin Read, the leader of the company, Mr. Harry Watson, and Mr. H. A. Weaver. while the interlineation of Miss Portia Cook and Miss Stella Mason adds a charm to the programm before us which we cannot easily resist. The renowned Conklin Brothers have also been per manently engaged. The season will be inaugr rated this evening with the petite comedy of "State Secrets," a fancy dance by Miss Stella Mason, a comic song by Mr. Wood Benson, and the farce of "The Man Without a Head."

A Call for Thoors. — Tens of thousands of the patriotic young men of Kentucky are flocking to their country's standard, and it will be but a short time till a sufficient force will be organized upon our soil to drive the wanton invaders from our State and crush the hideous form of rebellion which has been raised within our borders. But there are tens of thousands yet unenlisted who wish to take a part in this patriotic work. We invite the attention of all such to the proposition in another column to raise a troop of 150 men in this city, for the infantry which force will be under the immediate command of General Anderson. The commissioned officers of the company, who are gallant men, have already been designated, and embrace such names as Dr. I. W. Scott, Captain: Peter Hart, First Lieutenant; Matt. THE FIGHT AT LEWINSVILLE. - Interest tails of the Encounter .- The New York Herald's correspondent gives the following detailed accoun of the skirmish on the 11th, near Lewinsville.

of the skirmish on the 11th, near Lewinsville:
In accordance with orders from Gen. McClellan, this morning Gen. Smith commanding the advance brigade on the south side of the Potomac near the Chain Bridge, directed a topographical reconnoisance in force to be made in the direction or Lewinsville.

The reconnoitering party consisted of the Seventy-ninth New York Volunteers, Third Vermont Volunteers, a battalion of the Nineteenth Irdiana, Volunteers a battalion of the First United States Chasseurs under Lieutenant Col. Alexander P. Shaler, two sections (four pieces) of the West Pomt Battery, Captain Griffin; fifty men of Company H, Fifth United States Cavalry, Lieut. McLane commanding, and one company of Young's Cavalry—the whole under command of Col. Isaac J. Stevens, acting Brigadier-General. The scientific corps was in charge of Lieutenant Drlando M. Poe, United States Topographical Engineers, assisted by Lieutenant West, of the United States Coost Survey, who were to conduct the reconnoisesance.

United States Coast Survey, who were to conduct the reconnoissance.

The reconnoitering party, thus organized, left Camp Advance about 7 A. M., and proceeded without molestation to Lewinsville, a distance of four or five miles, reaching that point at half-past 10 A. M., just in time to get a sight of the heels of a rebel cavalry picket, about fifty strong, which evacuated the village and retreated in the direction of Falls Church, without firing a shot upon the approach of our advance grand.

After the arrival of our troops in Lewinsville, cavalry and infantry pickets were thrown out on all the diverging roads and prominent places for a distance of half a mile. Scouting parties were also sent out to observe the movements of the rebels, should any be attempted.

At about 11,0 clock, A. M., a large body of rebel cavalry were seen in the distance watching the movements of our troops. They did not come within cannon or musket range, and therefore their appearance did not interfere with the operation of the control of the Lieut. Poe, of the Engineers, with a corps of assistants, commenced his surveys, and proceeded over an area of four miles requare, obtaining valuable topographical information.

At half past two o'clock the reconnoissance was completed, and orders given to recall the pickets, preparatory to returning to Camp Advance. All the pickets responded to the recall except a picket of the Third Vermont and one from the Nineteenth Indiana Regiment. Col. Stevens sent a detachment out to learn the reason of their detention, and subsequently learned that they were watching the advance of a column of the enemy, consisting of seven hundred cavalry, two regiments of infantry, and four pieces of artillery,
who were coming from the direction of Fall's

DIOCESE OF KENTUCKY, Sept. 10, 1851.

Rev. and Dear Brother: Let us all unite, heart and soul, in observing the Day of Fasting and Prayer appointed by the President of the United States, for most urgent is the occasion.

I have not thought it worth while to authorize any other service but that for Ash Wednesday, except leaving the choice of the selection or Psalter and of the lessons to each Rector. You will of course continue to use the Collect for Peace, and the Prayer for Congress may be used by changing a passage into "More especially the Senate and Representatives of this Commonwealth in Frankfort assembled" (if not adjourned).

Reliable Union men just from Greenville reporthat Hardee has returned to that place with 8,000 men, and threatens to march on this point im diately. From the Division of Gens. Rains and Price

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 13.
The correspondent of the St. Louis Democr

The correspondent of the St. Louis Democrat furnishes the following:

A messenger from Col. Mulingan at Lexington reports that Gen. Price's advance guard reached Warrensburg on Tuesday, and Claib Jackson made a speech. Price claims to have 16,000 men and his main body is appreaching Lexington. This messenger brings an official account of a ckirminh between the rebt land Gen. Lane's forces, dated Fort Bledsoe, near Fort Scott, Sept. 4th, the substance of which is as follows:

He says immediately after leaving Springfield he despatched General Rains to clear the counties bordering on Kanasa of the marauling bands which had been devastating that section of the country; that he himself advanced to Rains's assistance, and their combined force encountered at Big Dry Wood Creek the forces under Lane, Montgomery, and Johnson, and, after a brisk skirmish of an hour and a quarter, the Federal troops retreated and were pursued by his forces about three miles. He states his loss at three killed and twenty-seven wounded, and says they buried three of Lane's men. He concludes by saying the enemy have continued to retreat northward from Fort Scott, which post they have abandoned, and adds: "This relieves me of the necessity of pursuing them into Kanasa, the soil of which I am unwilling to invade, unless her citizens shall provoke me to do so by committing renewed outrages on the people of this State. In that event, I shall not only cross the borders, but will lay waste their farms, and utterly destroy the cities and towns of that State."

This correspondent adds: While it is certain that there have been some skirmishes on the borderic tides not prove that the rebols have gained any advantage, but on the contrary it would appear that they have found a force too strong for them and have given up their plan of advancing into Kansas, and turned upon the weaker force at Lexington. Their design now is certainly first to take Lexington and then bring Claib Jackson here.

A Skirmish near Chain Bridge.

This afternoon the enemy, in pretty strong force, with infantry, artillery, and cavalry, appeared in front of the Union pickets on the centre and right wing of our forces on the Virginia side of the Potomac. They made their first demonstration on the road leading from Falls Church to Ball's Cross Roads, driving in our pickets with heavy bodies of skirmishers and acouta, immediately followed by planting a section of artillery near Hall's house. From this point they directed graps, cannister, and schrappel on our pickets at Ball's Cross Roads, directing their fire at every point along the road wherever they thought our pickets were established between the Cross Roads and Chain Bridge. The Union pickets rallied in order, and intell gence was immediately communicated to Gen. McDowell at Arlington Heu-e.

From Hatteras Inlet.

Forthers Monroe, Sept 14.

The s'eamer J. R. Spaulding returned from Hatteras Inlet this morning. The Susquebanns and Pawnee had arrived there. The former has sustained little injury in the collision with the gunboat Flag. The Spaulding brought the remant of Col. Wilber's regiment and nearly 1,000 stand of arms which were captured from the Confederates, and a dozen prisoners taken from prizes made at Hatteras Inlet. Four we sels had returned to the Inlet with the English flag flying under the supposition that the lag still belonged to the Confederates, the Federal flag having been temporarily bauled down. Pilots were offered the vessels and every facility for getting in. They did not discover their mistake until too late. Two of the vessels—the Persian Lane and Harriet Ryan—were from the British Provinces, and had valuable cargoes, consisting of molasses, shees, and clothing. Our troops at the Inlet had mounted all the guns and fixed these spiked by the Confederates before surrendering.

No intelligence of importance had been received from the sound nor from the mainland.

Gen. Reynolds will go to-morrow to assume command of Hatteras.

Aspecial despatch to the New York Post says:
The skirmish of pickets vesterday near Bell's ross Roads, in Virginia, was not a serious affair. The accounts of it have been greatly exaggerated.
Mr. Sickles yesterday arrested two rebel officers at a point two miles down the Potomac.
The militia of the District of Columbia is presaring for active service. A regiment is now organized, and will soon be sworn in.
The Baltimore South, the rabid secession journal whose editor was arrested yesterday, has stopped publication. The Baltimore Exchange, the leading secession paper in that city, is more violent than ever. This morning its principal editor was arrested.
Prominent citizens of Baltimore, now in this city, declare that the effect of the arrests will be satisfactory. The secesion fever in Baltimore is likely to be checked by such summary proceedin as a those which the Government felt compiled to adopt.

The President transmitted a letter to General Fremont, on the 12th inst., on the recent proclamation. He says: "Assuming that you, being on the ground, could better judge of the necessities of your position than I could at this distance. On seeing your proclamation of the 30th of August, I perceive several objections to it—the particular objection being the clauses relative to the confiscation of property and the liberation of slaves. It is objectionable on account of its non-conformity to the fact of Congress. On the 8th of August last, I wrote you, expressing a wish that that clause should be modified. Your answer expressed a preforence that I should make an open order for the modification, which I cheerfully do.

Southern Moliteration at the Taking of Fort Hatteras.—The Richmond Whig of a recent date has a most sarcastic article on the capture of the Hatteras forts, censuring by implication the Confederate authorities, and which commences in this style:

Let us imitate the nutmeg Chinese by all means. The fort has been taken, many hundreds of men have surrendered, valuable officers have become prisoners, a large amount of powder has been captured, the most important part of our coast for privateering purposes in the hands of the enesity, and the captured the most important part of our coast for privateering purposes in the hands of the enesity, and the captured the most important part of our coast for privateering purposes in the hands of the enesity, and the captured the most important part of our coast for privateering purposes in the hands of the enesity, and the captured the enesity, and the date in the stream of the warning given by Northern papers.

It will take 30,000 men to regain the fort, but that is nothing. What do we want with if: It was built for fun, widently. Had we been in samest some notice would have been taken of the warning given by Northern papers.

It would be the height of folly and treason to accuse any member of the Cabinet of negligence in the premises. We, who live at the seat of Government, know to well the superhuman energy, the sleepless vigilance and mirror and the proposite of every department to entertain for a moment the shadow of a suspicion of any one nearly or remotely connected with the administration. First the proposite is dependent of the proposite in the forts of North Carolina. Of course we will whigh them, for have we not the greatest number of unarmed militia?

Secession Going Under.—Col. Forney writes from Washington:

McCullough is flying into Arkansas; Magodin Mecullough is flying into check; the Baltimore mob, force of General Dix. It is even the more of the proposite of the colling for a manufact of the colling for a manufact of the colling for a manufact of the colling from Washington:

McCullough is flying into Arkansas; Magoffin cowers before the Federal authority, and the decree of the ballot in Kentucky; Hardee is retreating along the Mississippi; Roeserans is holding Lee and Floyd and Wise in check; the Baltimore mob, manacled and silent, glares powerless at the feet of General Dix. It is even rumored that the "Grand Army" that now threatens McClellan on the shores opposite Washington will break up and dissolve. Meanwhile the blockade is stretching its long arms, and will presently hug the whole Confederacy in an iron and wooden embrace. The Union men of all the Slave States will shortly rise from whispered complaint into open denunciation, and the most potent enemies of the rebellion will speedily be found in the States now under its thraidom.

Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, writing under date of September 8, has the following which, at this juncture, will be read with peculiar interest, as showing the ality of the Confederate forces on the Potomac and the character of the ground they occupy:

The rebels have been very quiet for the last two or three days, and it is now commonly re-ported that they have relinquished their purpose (if they ever had one) of attacking Washington immediately. However this may be—and the thousand reports which daily fly over the town are not worthy of much attention—one thing is certain, the rebel troops are wonderfully quiet.

Munson's Hill.

Munson's Hill is naturally a strong position, and is especially so for the rebels, who are at that point only four miles distant from the railway leading straight to Manassas Junction and Richmond. Munson's Hill is about three and a half miles, as the crow flies, from Fort Corcoran and Arlington House. It is four and a half miles from the Long Bridge, due west, and not more than three from Fort Albany. So far as an attack upon our fortifications is concerned, the occupation of Munson's Hill is of no importance. It is utterly impossible for them to bombard Forts Corcoran or Albany from Munson's Hill with any effect.

So far but two guns are mounted on the hill, So far but two guns are simple breastworks thrown up on the top of the hill. The guns are not heavy, and the works upon the hill do not indicate anything more serious than the entrenchments which were dug at Fairfax Court House receral army at Stone Fridge. Future move-ments may quickly change the aspect of affairs, but at present there is certainly no good evidence that Beauregard intends to attack our line of fortifications. Two rebel regiments compiled Hunter's Chapel night before last, and are still along the creek of that name, but this of itself is not a threatening movement.

THE CHAIN BRIDGE AND THE UPPER POTOMAC The country along the Fotomac from Alexandria to the Chain Bridge is not near so favorable for the rebels as that around Centreville, Bull Run, and Manassas. The Chain Bridge is about five miles northwest of Washington, and the Virtuella Country of the Chain nve mies northwest or washington, and the vir-ginia shore of the river there is hilly, forming a kind of rocky bluff all the way down to Washing-ton and for a distance above the bridge. The hills can be easily held by good troops against an approaching enemy. The same is true all the way down to and below Arington. The ground is high, and the chain of hills forms a natural line of defence. As the forests have been cut down. is high, and the chain of missionine a material mis-of defence. As the forests have been cut down, our artillery can have a full sweep at any attack-ing columns. The country is ful of ravines just back of the river; but there are no places of the kind not commanded by our guns. On the other hand, there is a deep ravine back of Munson's Hill by which our troops, if they ever see fit, might attack it in the rear.

THE COUNTRY BEYOND ARLINGTON.

Such is the topography of the country back of Arlington, that if the entire robel army should entrenth itself in front of our lines, it would be much easier to take them by storm—to conquer them—here than at Bull Run or Manassas. We have nothing to fear, then, at this moment, from the rebels, if it to true, which is very doubtful, that they are entrapeching themselves permanent. THE COUNTRY BEYOND ARLINGTON. that they are entrenching themselves permanently, and with their whole force within a few miles of Washington. They are by no means in so strong a position here as they would be further away, and if they can capture the capital by taking our entrenchments, it will end the war by proving that Northern troops are good for nothing, either on the field of battle or behind entrenchments. In other words, the rebels cannot force our lines if our troops behave at all well, and it is as easy to attack the enemy at Munson's Hill as at Stone Bridge, and in fact a great deal easier. hat they are entrepching themselves permanent

THE POSITION OF ALEXANDRIA. THE POSITION OF ALEXANDRIA.

The position of Alexandria is such that the rebels can have little hope of taking it. Hunting Creek protects the lower part of the town, so that no flank movements can be made upon it. The bills back of Alexandria are high, and can easily be held in protection of the town, and even if they were not held, our vessels of war in the river could at once make Alexandria untenable. OTHER PLACES IN VIRGINIA,

OTHER PLACES IN VIRGINIA.

Arlington Heights are directly opposite Georgetown, nearly two miles back from the Potomac.
Koach's Spring is about two miles distant, southwest of the Long Bridge, a little off from the road to Fairfax Court-house. Arlington Honse is about five miles north or northeast of Alexandria.
Fall's Church is a little willage six miles straight west of Georgetown. Baily's Cross Roads is a point due west of the Long Bridge, and the road from the bridge which leads directly past Bailey's is the road to Fairfax Court-house. The lastnamed place is eighteen miles from Washington and fourteen from Alexandria. THE WEST SIDE OF THE POTOMAC. This side of the river we have the heights of Georgetown, which commands Arlington itself, and which, in the event of a disaster, might be occupied to worry the enemy across the river. North and northeast of the city there are also hills which command all the roads leading into Washington. These hills are distant two or three miles, some of them four and five miles, and make it comparatively easy to surround the capital the comparatively easy to surround the capital with a net-work of fortifications.

The eastern branch of the Potomac flows down on the east side from Bladensburg, and forms a sort of protection on that side, though, in case an enemy were once across the Patomac, it would be necessary for the Government to take possession of the high Maryland hills across the eastern branch.

Soon of the high Maryland hills across the eastern branch.

The Capital is an amphitheatre—it is surrounded by a chain of hills which are from three to five miles distant from the Capital buildings. With proper earthworks and fifty thousand good troops, it might stand a siege of six months against any army the rebel Confederacy could bring against it. Of course it would be improper to say anything respecting existing fortifications which protect the Capital, but the country may rest easy so far as this matter is concerned. Gen. McClellan is taking advantage of the natural position of the city, and will not omit any precaution, however trifling.

THE ENEMY'S FORCES. THE ENEMY'S FORCES.

Very little is known here of the rebel encamp The main force at Munson's Hill is sup posed to be behind it, as not more than a regim or at the utmost two regiments, have been seen on parade. General Bonham is at Vienna with a brigade of South Carolina regiments, and sends out a force daily to watch the operations of the Federal forces near Chain Bridge, but so far remains on the defensive.

AFFAIRS IN THE INTERIOR,—Passengers in the train from Jefferson City last night brings a report that Gen. S. Price's troops had entered Warrensburg and taken possession of that town. We are clearly of opinion that this wants confirmation.

We learn from a private source, worthy of credence, that General McClellan, on last Tuesday morning, had 55 batteries of artillery, of six guns each, of various calibre, and about 150,000 men, at and near Washington, and that this army will be increased to at least 200,000 men before the end of the present week. The organization and drill of these troops are going forward with industry and care, and the degree of discipline already apparent in every company, regiment, and brigade is in the highest degree creditable to the officers and the men, and promises greet effectiveness in any future operations that may be undertaken against the enemy. The movements of troops, and everything connected with the army preparations, are carefully kept from publik knowledge, but the facts above given, to state which can do no harm how, but will gratify publicinterest, may be relied upon, coming, as they do, from one who knows whereof he speaks.

Washington, Sept. 13.

Nothing happened across the Potomac to-day.
The arrests of the most prominent and dangerous Baltimore traitors, throws all secessiondom into fresh paroxysms of slarm and rage. Nobody knows where the blow will strike next.

The rebel army send up signal rockets every night along their whole line.

Joseph Holt, in a speech here last night, declared Kentucky was no longer bound in the disgraceful chains of "neutrality," and would soon be found repelling the rulian bayonets of Tennessee, and defending the Government on the battle field.

Several thousand of the enemy advanced on our pickets in the neighborhood of Hall's House and Mount Olive Church to-day, driving them in. The rebells also burned several houses, and are reported to have shelled Ball's Cross Roads, three quarters of a mile below, eccupied by our pickets.

This was in retaliation for our pickets shooting several of their's this morning.

They will probably fall back again during the night. Otherwise an attempt will doubtless be made to-morrow to drive them back. REMOVAL 包工 MOORE'S MAMMOTH FURNITURE DEPOT ed to north side of Market street,
